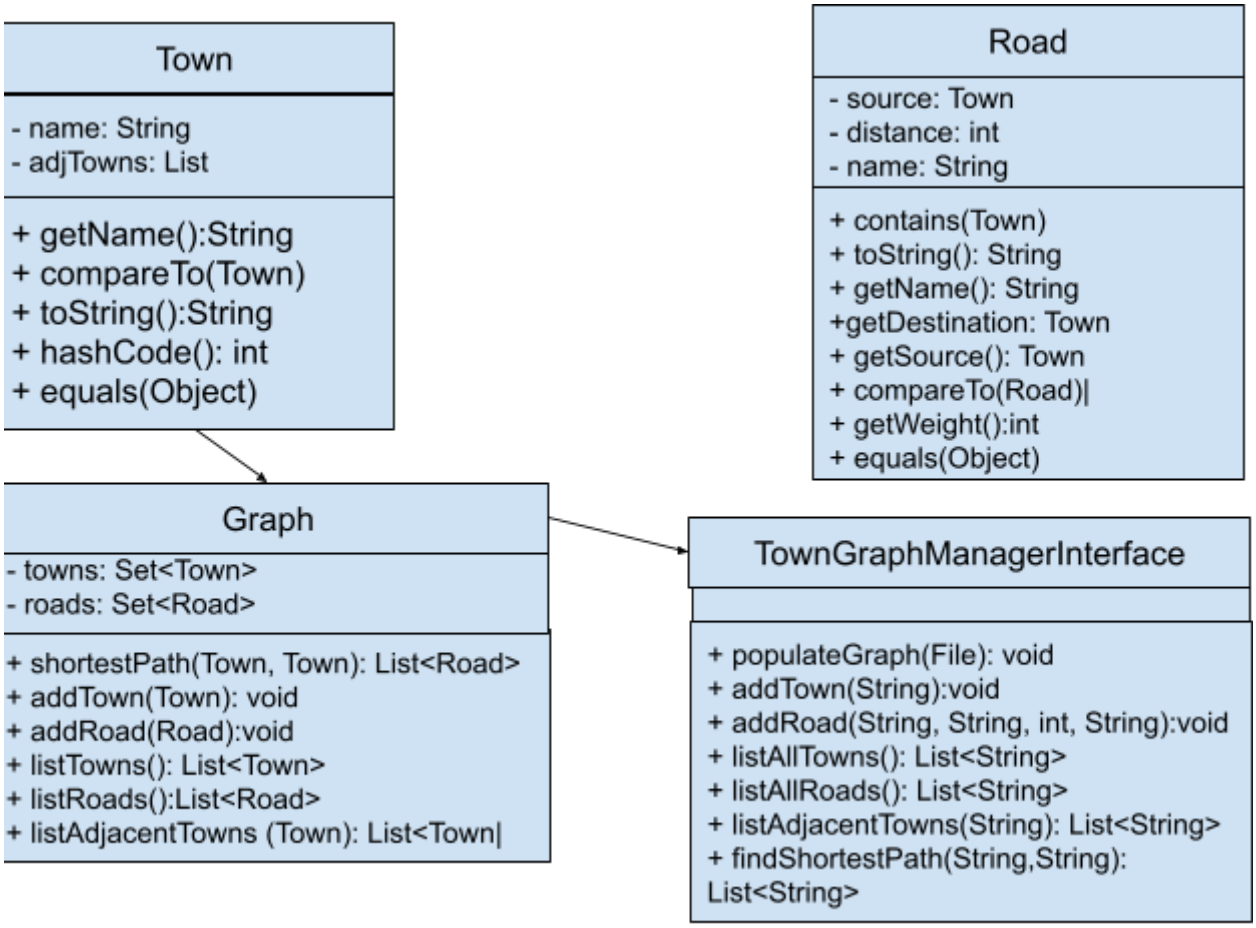
Project 6
Juan Prieto



Learning Expirience

During this last project I struggle a lot with the graph class, it was so hard for me to build the right implementation that worked in harmony with the rest of the classes and interfaces. This project make me realizes how useful the java docs are. I did not had any problem with the road and town class but when it came to build the graph class I did not know what to do.

Something that I want to improve is my organization when it comes to code, I usually leave the commewnts and documentation for the end, once I finish coding. But this is not efficient at all, I keep losing track of what Im doing and what to do next. So from now on I will comment my code as Im coding.
